L'EXPÉRIENCE FLD

Léa Jardin, former student of the LL.M. in Human Rights, Security & Development and Ph. D. Candidate at the Faculty of Law

The LL.M. in Human Rights, Security & Development is a unique and highly rewarding course. Its first strength is to offer many classes in English, an essential language for International Human Rights Law. In addition, this course allows to acquire solid theoretical knowledge while developing practical skills, for example, through law clinics. Finally, we are able to meet numerous professors and practitioners from different backgrounds who are really helpful for the construction of our professional project and network.
