The European Bachelor in Law is a trilingual programme of law, taught in French, English and in Spanish or German. It prepares students for European and international legal and judiciary careers. The degree offers a deep understanding of French, European and international legal systems.

🎯 OBJECTIVES OF THE PROGRAMME

- + Study of French law
- + Study of European, English and German or Spanish law, with courses taught by visiting professors from great European faculties in their mother tongue.
- + Study of fundamental subjects, guaranteeing access to a broad choice of careers (national and international).
- + Study of comparative law.
- + Specialised education:
  - Improvement of legal methodology.
  - Practice with legal clinics taught by lawyers (in English and Spanish or German).
  - Advanced language courses and legal culture courses.

💡 ACADEMICS

- + Law courses in English, French, German and Spanish.
- + International mobility: possibility to participate in a year-long exchange with the ERASMUS+ program or as part of an international partnership.
- + Individualised instruction with a professor for one-to-one tutoring, seminars and methodology workshops.

💼 JOBS & CAREERS/CONTINUING EDUCATION

- + Pursue a LL.M. in international and European law abroad or one of the LL.M. offered by the Faculty of Law
- + Become an international lawyer, magistrate or in-house legal advisor...in companies or law firms in France or in other European Union member states.
- + Preparation for European and international civil service exams.
- + International internship opportunities.

💼 PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

- + 8 weeks of mandatory internships over the three years of the programme, of which 4 must be abroad (in a company, law firm, institution or summer program...) or in France within an international department.
- + Meetings with legal practitioners.
- + Individual assistance for planning professional careers or further studies.

THE FLD EXPERIENCE

Léonie Wehrens

2nd year student in the European Bachelor in Law programme

What made me choose the Paris campus of the Catholic University of Lille was, first of all, its international dimension. I could enroll in a bachelor programme that perfectly corresponds to me, combining the study of law with the study of two foreign languages. The European Bachelor of Law allows me to see the world from three different angles and to develop a solid cultural competence, essential elements for my future career.
